Jo Koy
Sunday, September 21, 2014
Mainstage Theatre
Regular $25
Senior/Staff/Alumni $25
CLC students free with CLC ID (limited seating)

From filling sold-out clubs across the nation to appearing weekly as a regular on “Chelsea Lately,” Jo Koy has come a long way from his modest beginnings at a Las Vegas coffee house. His infectious, explosive energy onstage, insightful jokes and family-inspired humor cross all boundaries.

A single father, Jo Koy was inspired by his son and began working on his first Comedy Central special “Don’t Make Him Angry,” which aired in January 2009. His much anticipated second Comedy Central special “Lights Out” aired in October 2012 and is now available on DVD.

The show will have two opening acts, including a local comedian. Appropriate for age 18 and above.

Co-sponsored by CLC’s Multicultural Student Center, Program Board and Diversity Commission.

Variety named Jo Koy one of the “10 Comics to Watch!”

Events subject to $2 JLC facility fee.

When the good Doctor Dolittle discovers—to his surprise—that the animals he is treating can talk, imagine what he learns! All of the characters we’ve come to love through Hugh Lofting’s stories are given new life in this entertaining stage adaptation. Doctor Dolittle and his new friends take us on an adventure after another, journeying from a small English village to the far corners of the world. Along the way, we learn valuable lessons about kindness to animals and the wisdom of all Earth’s creatures. Don’t miss this delightful, classic story that has charmed readers of all ages for generations.

The Cathar Heresy and the Albigensian Crusade
Lecture by Josephine Fauk, Ph.D.
Wednesday, November 5, 2014 7 p.m.
C Wing Auditorium (Coos)

The 20-year-long Albigensian Crusade took place in the early 13th century and successfully destroyed the Cathars. The region was placed firmly in the hands of the kings of France, but at a price. It left a bitter legacy that is still remembered by the inhabitants of Languedoc and played a crucial role in the creation of the Inquisition.

Sightseers
(UK, 2012)
September 5, 2014

Newly dating, a couple embarks upon an RV tour of the English countryside, soon learning they share a murderous response to those who offend them. In this very black comedy from director Ben Wheatley, the film’s organic roots (its script was derived from the lead’s theatrical improvisation experiences) result in a playful, even oddly moving tone. The Guardian raved: “chilling and transgressive flourishes are carried off with deadpan confidence; it’s a distinctive and brutally unsettling piece of work.”

---

The Forgiveness of Blood
(Albania/USA, 2012)
October 3, 2014

Director Joshua Marston (“Maria Full of Grace”) immerses himself in rural Albania for this tale of familial blood feuds complicated by encroaching Western modernity. Marston moves with impressive ease between documentary naturalism and the tight grip of a great thriller. When conflict between two clans turns violent, their children struggle to follow ancient rules of honor intended to prevent more death. The Village Voice declared: “Marston nails the claustrophobia of small-town life and the turbulent emotionalism of teenagers, but what pushes the film toward sublimity is the way he delicately captures all of the characters’ inner lives as their world slowly crumbles.”

Blue is the Warmest Color
Movies
November 7, 2014

Please note the film’s early start time of 6:30 p.m.

High school student Adele falls in love with older artist Emma, leading to a relationship spanning many years and causing many awakenings: emotional, cultural, sexual, culinary, aesthetic. Cannes jury president Steven Spielberg set a precedent upon awarding this film the Palme d’Or last year, giving it at once to director Abdellatif Kechiche and his two lead actresses. Their physical nudity led to controversy (and an NC-17 rating for sexuality), but the bulk of the film’s three hours are devoted to nakedness of a more psychological kind. Entertainment Weekly said its “raw portrayal of infatuation and heartbreak is both devastating and sublime. It’s unforgettable.”

(Iran/France, 2011)
December 5, 2014

Iranian master Abbas Kiarostami, Palme d’Or winner for “Taste of Cherry” (1997), ventures outside his home country for the first time with this mind-bending romantic mystery set amongst gorgeous Tuscan landscapes. After a writer publicly reads from a book on art forgery, he is confronted by a female admirer (the luminous Juliette Binoche, best actress winner at Cannes). But what is the true nature of their past relationship? And who can be trusted? Slate invoked such classics as “Last Year at Marienbad,” which wrote: “If you like movies that induce a pleasurable state of vertigo, this is one of the great discoveries of the year.”
